

BridgeDetroit, REPORTER

BridgeDetroit is distinctly different from every other media outlet in our city. We're a nonprofit, community-centered news organization specifically designed to understand and respond to Detroiters' critical information needs. Our homegrown team of reporters and organizers live and work in the communities we cover. We take the time to build authentic relationships with our fellow Detroiters and promise to represent residents' priorities and experiences with dignity, intention and respect.

We invite you to join us on this journey as we create a new model for local journalism, one that is accessible to all Detroiters and for all Detroiters.

The successful candidate(s) will join a small, collaborative team to deliver high-quality daily reporting on issues prioritized by Detroit's residents.

Detroiters have told us that they want more public transparency in local government. Detroiters have also said that they want BridgeDetroit to cover the following issues:

- Voting rights
- Environmental justice and climate change
- Economic development and small business news
- Housing
- Community Development
- Arts and Culture
- Other issues to be identified by Detroit residents

The ideal candidate is a reporter who wants to break news, show how it influences life far outside of the corridors of power, go beyond the obvious news of the day and produce regular enterprise reporting. They will also put Detroit residents' concerns at the center of their reporting.

We seek career professionals with a strong connection to the City of Detroit, its residents, institutions and communities. We are also looking for:
